

January 18, 2012; the battle is joined

FMTA continues to make clear its close relationship with OCAP and other attack groups for the authoritarian left.

The plan now is start this "fairlease.ca" project as a way of attracting attention and pretending that they actually do something for tenants. A standardized lease by itself would not be a bad idea. But it does not take about twenty poverty pimps sucking up half a million a year to get it done.

These people are very hard to get rid of. The links to them are still on city web sites. And they are still making threats in every possible forum.

Below;

Web site for fairlease.ca and a comment in the Globe and Mail from Mark (Marque) Brill of FMTA, OCAP, and "TorontoStop the cuts."

Mark_Brill

Score: 24

10:56 PM on January 17, 2012

Thank you Josh Colle, Josh Matlow and Pasternak even if all three of you are zionists you still fought against Ford and you won't have to worry about being visited by OCAP.

Now comes the fight to save city jobs in a time when they are needed most and do the right thing again and vote to keep the jobs.

With the economy as it is the loss of the jobs will lead to a permanent decline in Toronto and it would be the city that would be the cause of it.

Support www.torontostopthecuts.com