

There is no way I could archive all of this before it gets modified.

If I hadn't lucked in last night, I would not have caught that major change before Dan did it.

The other thing I just noticed was that a couple of postings on the landlord's board I found out about a little while ago had messages criticizing Dan deleted and the posting of a letter to the editor of an Ottawa newspaper a decade ago was deleted. I need to find that letter for your site.

It seems Dan really is friends with the landlord in charge of that board!

I would archive the landlord board <http://members7.boardhost.com/Landlordontario/>, but I would not have enough time in the day every day to do this.

<http://members2.boardhost.com/TorontoTenants/msg/1249309672.html>

Landlords

Posted by Internet Expert on 8/3/2009, 10:27 am

Message modified by board administrator 8/3/2009, 7:34 pm

Watching the landlords board it has become very clear and I have traced it down that a quisling has been posting there to cause a war between tenants and the reasonable landlords like Bob.

This quisling in our midst is so adamant that he wants to succeed with his business that he will do anything to help his friends the landlords even if it means hurting thousands of tenants.

His diseased mind has led him to post there with many fake names pretending to be tenants to outrage the landlords and give them a lot of detailed advice as to how to destroy the tenants movement.

Let all tenants instead stand in solidarity behind this website and the Federation of Metro Tenants Associations and he will only succeed in uniting us all.

Together we are strong!

<http://members2.boardhost.com/TorontoTenants/msg/1249357716.html>

Re: Landlords

Posted by Dan McIntyre on 8/3/2009, 11:48 pm, in reply to "Landlords"

Well, there may be more than one quisling. I think it is very sad how some people have abused this amazing thing called the internet.

Those quislings could not bother this discussion board any more, but they found a home over there. Looks like Bob may be finally dealing with them. I noticed some of the personal attacks on me were removed. And a new site seems imminent.

Some may find it strange that I think it is a good idea for landlords to have a discussion board. Well, of course I cant stop it any way, but in fact it is in our interests to have better informed landlords who follow the rules and hopefully treat their rent paying tenants fairly.

I think landlords fall into four or five categories.

1. well informed professional landlords who stay within the rules.
2. well informed landlords who get away with so many things because they know that it is so hard for tenants to take them to the Landlord Tenant Board. Legal Aid does not do these cases, and the Board has a myriad of confusing forms and rules.
3. Non informed landlords that didnt bother to learn the business before getting into it.
4. Non informed landlords who would rather be nasty and unethical and blame their tenants and any government to the left of Attila the Hun than bother learning. Just make it up as you go along.

5. I will keep the fifth category to myself.

Our job will continue to be to help tenants learn their rights and responsibilities and to help them defend themselves, and to hopefully achieve better tenant legislation. Of course, tenants aren't in the business of being tenants - although some of us do work in the field.

At the end of the day...or I mean at the first of the month, the vast majority of us pay the rent. And plenty of it.